From the Desk of the Director
Future of Management and Technology Education @ DES's NMITD

India has a one-of-a-kind combination of location, culture, and demographics . It can leverage the economic growth, development and create management and technology education, which will harness the talent India has. Leaders of Indian management education are quickly realizing that they must look outward as they train business leaders.

They can't be provincial. It will not be enough to focus on educating Indians for India. Business schools in India can design themselves as global institutions; building globally distributed educational programs and deep partnerships around the world right from the start.

India's corporations must become active partners in building the management education programs by supplying ideas, knowledge, capital, financial investment, and on-site experience for students, enabling them to learn in real-world situations.

Building on its world-class IT knowledge, India has the opportunity to show the world the true potential of technology-based learning . Technology is leading to a revolution in the way we learn. It is helping to solve the problems of scale, quality of education, and learnability of the student . Teachers can now reach the full classroom through digital screens, enabling each student to get the core content. Student engagement is higher as it combines various instructional styles and each student gets exposure to world-class education, something that was just not available in a chalk and talk approach.

Cloud-based tools and apps in classroom will introduce a paperless learning environment. Google Classroom is already on its way to create a paperless classroom where teachers and students use Google Drive, Google Docs and Gmail to conduct and exchange assignments in a smarter way.

At NMITD, we believe in student centric approach to learning, based on Indian values and a Global Outlook and a mix of academics and Industry demands. We have a team of dedicated professionals committed to excellence in education. The non-teaching staff is also very friendly and helpful and above all, we have the lineage of 136 year old Deccan Education Society.

We welcome the future generation of budding managers and technocrats to join us to prepare for a bright future.

Dr. Rasika Mallya
I/C Director, NMITD

The DES has adopted more democratic structure that allows Teacher participation in academic and administrative matters. It has become a model of the teacher-managed institutions in Maharashtra and symbolized PEOPLE'S INTIATIVE in spreading Education.

Most of the Institutions, run by DES, are at par with one of the best Institutions in India. The student - Centric over-all education provided by its Institutions can be distinctively seen by the past students of the various Institutions run by DES. Over a century DES has grown from a tiny sapling into a massive 'Bodhi' tree with roots in thousand places in myriad hearts of its alumni. At present DES has to its credit 8 colleges, 8 collegiate Institutes offering technical, vocational and management programs.

As a mark of its second centennial, Deccan Education Society (DES) has taken an ambitious project of starting the Institute of Technology and developmental studies: Navinchandra Mehta Institute of Technology and Development (NMITD) in the city of Mumbai in the year 2008.

Location:
The College is situated in the educational epicenter of the city of Mumbai. It forms a part of the locality where, within a circle of few kilometers of radius, one finds over a score of nationally known educational institutions. The result is a great synergy among the institutions, facilitating meaningful interaction for mutual benefit.

Natural backdrop:
The Institute is located in the beautiful blue surrounding of Arabian Sea, just on its shore and is situated right in the midst of the city of Mumbai. It is near to the well-known Sidhhivinayaka Temple and just opposite of the World known Videsh Sanchar Nigam Ltd (VSNL) building. The location is such that the Institute can be easily reached from any place of Mumbai.

Quality Policy

Commitment to scholarship and learning :
Encouragement to academic achievement, enhancement and up gradation at all levels of teaching staff, non-teaching staff and students.
    Accessibility to teachers at a personal level -An informal atmosphere is developed to enhance student teacher bonds
    Teacher's attitude encourages the student for one- to- one communication. Alliances with the community - Encouragement to community based activities.

To be a student centric professional Institute, harnessing the full potential of technology and management in the knowledge economy with a global outlook.

To groom budding managers and technocrats , ensuring a culture of enlightened practices of management and technology for sustained growth of work organizations and making a difference to the community.

- Excellence,
- Creativity,
- Professionalism,
- Integrity and Ethical Conduct
